Democrats will meet in mass-meeting at the court house on June 1st to elect delegates to the Roanoke Convention. There will be one delegate for each 100 votes polled in the Mapp-Byrd Campaign. If there is a man or woman in the county who really wants to see Gov. Smith nominated for President he is not known. Yet it seems almost certain the N. Y. Governor will be able to whip the politicians in line and get off with the nomination.

If the slogan in the campaign is to be "restore the government to the people", why not nominate Sen. Jim Reed, who unearthed so much political corruption. He's the kind of Democrat to put pep in the campaign.

U. D. C. Convention

The district meeting of the second Virginia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy opened here Tuesday night and concluded a long program late yesterday afternoon with all sessions held in Liberty Baptist church.

At Tuesday night's session Mrs. H. P. Rhodes, district chairman, presided and Mrs. Cabell Flournoy of Lexington acted as secretary. Senator S. L. Ferguson made the address of welcome and introduced Mrs. Rhodes of Crozet, who made the response in behalf of the delegates. Miss Louise Gills read one of her essays which had taken the first state prize last year, on the "Recumbent Statue of Lee." Mrs. James A. Scott of Lynchburg, spoke on the Lee mausoleum.

At the morning session the delegates were taken in a body to the old surrender grounds, which many of them had never seen before, where they viewed the old historic points and tablets of the last days of the Confederacy. Lunch was served to about 100 delegates and members of the local chapter together with the Confederate veterans of this county and their wives and attendants. The meal was served in the dining rooms of Liberty Baptist church. Special music was rendered by the junior choir, of which Mrs. W. B. Caldwell and Miss Kate Franklin were in charge, and solo music was given by Miss Ruth Clement, the youngest daughter of the Appomattox chapter.

Mrs. Rhodes presided yesterday morning and Miss Kate Franklin acted as secretary. The session was opened with prayer by Rev. W. M. Thompson. Miss Anna Jones local president, gave the address of welcome, with a response by Mrs. Rhodes. Mrs. Cabell Flournoy spoke on the importance of presenting true facts of southern history to young people. Mrs. Ford of Lynchburg, made an interesting appeal for relief of aged Confederate women. Mrs. Zimmerman stressed the importance of contributing to the scholarship funds, whereby pupils get aid in attending colleges, Mrs. P. H. Bruce of the Virginia division of southern literature for home and foreign libraries, recommended "Historic Youth's History for 1361" for parallel work in the public schools. Mrs. Sallie B. Lioberts, state president, was present and spoke on various phases of the state program.

Before conclusion, the following resolution was offered by the committee on recommendations: Resolved: "That the second division appeal to the Virginia division at its next annual convention to consider the work of marking in an adequate and enduring manner the historic surrender grounds located at Appomattox." Mrs. Flourney offered a motion, which was unanimously carried, that this body go on record as sanctioning this movement, and that the resolution be presented to the next state meeting.

Mrs. Scott also suggested that the flowers used in decoration of the building for the present meeting be placed on the grave of the late Mrs. C. W. Hunter, who organized Appomattox Chapter Suitable resolutions were passed thanking the Appomattox chapter for the splendid entertainment.

Our town enjoyed having these ladies with us in our homes, and since they have found the way we hope they will come often. Mrs. N. A. Wages acted as chairman of the entertainment committee. Many of the delegates did not attend.

Timber Farming

Farm woodlands will often produce a profitable crop on lands otherwise useless for agriculture.

The price of standing timber has always been more stable than that of any other land crop.

Farm woods produce a valuable product—timber—readily salable for cash.

The farm woodland affords the farm owner winter employment at a time when other work is relatively slack.

It enables him to grow on his own land and without cash outlay a considerable part of his timber and fuel requirements.

Hotel Mons

At foot of Peaks of Otter, a quiet mountain resort for rest and recreation for every one. Open June 1st. Preachers, teachers, doctors, lawyers, tired and run down business men, and worn and wearied women, find Mons an ideal place for recuperation. Never hot, never sultry; you can always sleep—and eat at Mons. Terms moderate. Write the worn "Booklet" on a post card with your name and address, and send to Hotel Mons, Bedford, Va., and you will receive full information.

Democratic Mass Meeting

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Democratic Executive Committee of Appomattox County, at a meeting held at the Court House on Saturday, May 12, 1928, A Mass Meeting of the Democrats of Appomatox County, is hereby called to meet at the Court House of said County, on Friday, June 1st, 1928, at 2 P. M., court day, for the purpose of electing Delegates to the State Democratic Convention, which meets in Roanoke, Va., on June 21, 1928. All Democrats of Appomatox County are cordially invited to attend said Mass Meeting.

By order of the Committee.

Sickly Boy, 7, Gains 15Lbs—Father Happy

"My boy, 7, would not eat. I gave him Vinol and the way he eats and plays now makes me happy. He gained 15 pounds."—J. F. Andrea.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or aduits. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Tastes delicious.

FIND WAR VETERAN FIVE YEARS "DEAD"

Officials in San Francisco Identify Shock Victim.

San Francisco.—Unable to account for many black years and long thought dead by relatives, Nathaniel William Emery, thirty-eight, Bloomington, Ind., shell-shock victim of the World war and former lieutenant in the United States Marine corps, has been found, ill and destitute, here.

Robert C. Stillwell, secretary of the United Veterans' service commission, No. 312 Jessie street, has received information that clears up the mystery and steps have been taken to place Emery in a government hospital.

Emery wandered into the commission's office looking for a job. He said he wanted work of any kind as he was homeless, penniless and had been sleeping in Golden Gate park. He knew he had been in the Marine corps; that he enlisted in 1915 and was discharged in 1919; he recalled something about service on the battleship Texas, and with the One Hundred and Thirtieth company, Eleventh U. S. M. C. Beyond that he knew nothing about himself.

Emery was given temporary relief and Stillwell wrote to James E. Watson, United States senator from Indiana. The reply unraveled the tangled skein.

Emery, it was divulged, had escaped from a Madison (Ind.) hospital in 1923, to which he had been sent from Bloomington in 1921. Since his escape nothing had been heard from him. His wife, struggling to support their nine-year-old son and herself, had given him up for dead, divorced him and remarried.

Emery had had a hazy recollection of having a brother in the army and apparently had wandered over the country looking for him. The brother is Maj. A. R. Emery, formerly stationed at the Presidio, now at Fort Hunt, Alexandria, Va. He has been apprised of Emery's condition.

When Emery fled the Madison hospital the government stopped paying him compensation. In five years this has accumulated to several thousand dollars, and an effort is being made to have this restored.

At the request of Emery's Bloomington friends, Stillwell now seeks to have him removed either to the Madison (Ind.) hospital or to Palo Alto from Napa, where he is receiving temporary treatment.

Gain in Flying Leads U. S. to Tighten Regulations

Washington.—Air traffic has increased to a point requiring the stiffening of federal regulations aimed at its control. In 1926 the Commerce department laid down the first set of rules for the air, intended to safeguard and facilitate commercial aeronautics, and it has now undertaken a revision of the original code, which will result in a more stringent set of provisions.

By the new rules aviation instructors will be required to have 200 hours solo flying instead of 50 before training new pilots. Persons flying private planes must have ten hours alone in the air before obtaining their certificates. Pilots and mechanics must pass their examinations for it comes with a grade of 70 per cent in each subject included instead of with an average of 70 per cent for all subjects.

At least two years actual experience in engine maintenance and repair will be required from engine mechanics. Explosives other than fuel may not lawfully be carried in airplanes, nor may drunken or drugged persons be taken up as passengers by a licensed pilot.

Pilots will be forbidden to undertake aerial acrobatics at any level under 1,500 feet, and they will be further forbidden from alighting or flying off from any public street or highway without special permission.

In order to make sure that pilots have retained their original competency, the new regulations will authorize the secretary of commerce to require any person seeking a renewal of aeronautical certificates to be re-examined if the step is considered necessary.

Back and Forth

New York.—Dr. Philip G. Peabody, seventy-two, retired lawyer, is on his 113th crossing of the Atlantic. In 30 years he has visited 43 countries. He plans his 114th crossing in July, his 115th in August and his 116th in November.

Teach Flying

Berlin.—Seventeen German educational institutions are to give summer courses in flying. A club is to send an exhibit of 20 types of German aircraft on tour.

Land Not Wearing Out

Increasing crop yields on American farms show that the older farm lands are not wearing out, as has been sometimes stated.

First Indian Reservation?

It is believed that the reservation at Indian Mills, N. J., established in 1758, was the first Indian reservation established in the United States.

HISTORIC LANDMARKS SAVED BY ANNAPOLIS

Maryland Capital Sets Example to Other Cities.

Washington.—American architects, fostering a movement to save landmarks of American communities, point to Annapolis, Md., as a city which has preserved many mementos of its past.

In a communication to the National Geographic society, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, its president, describes some aspects of the colonial capital which, in part, follows:

"Annapolis has been preserved as our country's most truly colonial city. You may wander about this fine old community and feel that you are living in those dramatic days when the little city on the Severn had a major part in shaping the course of the nation's history.

"Going down to the water front, you can pick out a sailing craft and vision the square-sterned, 60-ton brigantine, Peggy Stewart, which, on October 15, 1774, arrived at Annapolis from England with an assorted cargo, including 17 packages of tea. Anthony Stewart, the owner of the brig, was a Marylander who had signed the nonimportation agreement. In order to unload the bulk of the cargo, he rashly paid the duty on the tea.

"When he was called to account he begged to be allowed to burn the tea publicly. But he was not to escape so lightly. Finally Stewart purged himself by undertaking to burn his brig, with the tea aboard.

"According to John Galloway, an eye-witness, the majority would have been satisfied to burn the tea; but, however that may be, it was an act that fired the colonies and cast Maryland's lot irrevocably with the forces of freedom. A picture of the firing of the Peggy Stewart hangs on the walls of the statehouse.

Why Carroll Identified Himself.

"Charles Carroll headed the delegation chosen at Annapolis to represent the province in the Continental congress.

"When it came his turn to sign the Declaration of Independence, there was some bantering remark as to whether the signers would hang singly or hang together, if the Revolution should fail.

"Some one added that Carroll would have a chance to escape, because there were so many Charles Carrolls that the British would not know which to seize.

"Thereupon Carroll reached for his pen and added the words, 'of Carrollton,' with a remark that now they would have no trouble to identify him if he were ever called upon to forfeit his life for the part he played in the cause of Independence. Carroll outlived all the other signers, dying November 14, 1832, at the age of ninety-five years.

"Begun in 1772, the Maryland capitol is filled with memories of these eventful years. Scores of pictures that grace its walls are of that famous body of soldiers, the Maryland line—companies, regiments, and brigades of which fought on every major Revolutionary battlefield from Massachusetts to Georgia.

"The voice of General Washington himself comes down the years, as he told Ramsay at Mount Vernon that 'if you can stop the British for ten minutes, until I can form, you will save my army.' He held them thirty minutes! And we hear General Greene saying of a charge by the Marylanders at Eutaw Springs that 'it exceeded anything I ever saw.'

"Maryland withheld neither men nor money that the colonies might be free, and no state, in proportion to population and wealth, contributed more of either.

Contribution to Union.

"While her soldiers were fighting so valiantly, her statesmen, meeting in the halls of the old statehouse at Annapolis, originated a pioneer thought that proved the colonies' salvation from falling apart after their victory. With great foresight, the Maryland leaders realized that the harmonious relations existing between the thirteen colonies must inevitably be destroyed, after the triumph of American arms, by bitter disputes arising as to the ownership of the vast region northwest of the Ohio, east of the Mississippi, and south of the Great Lakes.

"For a long time Maryland raised her voice alone; but gradually the other states were convinced of the fairness and wisdom of her stand and the necessity of the program she urged, if any lasting union were to be the fruit of the Revolution. New York, Virginia, Massachusetts and Connecticut generously ceded their territorial claims to the nation.

"But Maryland's clear-sighted and effective course had achieved something far greater than merely removing the cause of future strife between jealous colonies; by her insistence on the creation of a national domain she welded the most effective bond that could have been devised for a lasting union. When peace came the thirteen states found themselves joint owners of this great territory, and their common interest in developing their joint property and parceling it out into new states held them together.

Christmas Cards

The earliest example of the art of making Christmas cards is attributed to J. C. Horsley, R. A., who in 1846 made designs of this character. Subsequently the demand for these tokens became enormous, and at present Christmas cards are often of more artistic merit in both design and coloring.

What Is Hoarded Shrinks

The man that wrapped his talent in the napkin, and said, "Lo, there thou hast that is thine," was too sanguine. There was never an unused talent rolled up in a handkerchief yet, but when it was taken out and put into the scales, it was lighter than when it was committed to the keeping of the earth.

5 years of service is only a starting point for Buick

Fan to Purify Air

Purification as well as circulation of the air is sought in an electric fan recently introduced in France. It produces ozone from a small generator attached to it, the gas being blown outward by the rapidly revolving blades, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Ozone is used in sterilizing water and may sometimes be detected by its odor after a flash of lightning.

Wren Farmer's Friend

For its size, the house wren is one of the most effective bird enemies of the insects. Wrens usually rear two broods of young each year, and the parents keep busy from morning to night bringing food for the hungry young. The wren's diet is almost exclusively animal, and a pair of wrens will account for an enormous number of insects in a season.
